

Energy Solutions

Solutions that support frontline safety & backend efficiency

Real-time, coordinated communication is critical in the energy sector, where safety depends on the seamless exchange of information between frontline labour and field crews working in often dangerous conditions on oil rigs and offshore platforms.

DCM customizes, installs, and supports a wide range of mobility solutions. From deploying rugged, ignition-resistant laptops and handhelds to planning enterprise workflow automation, our decades of experience and robust national network ensure effective support for you and your team, wherever you may be.

DCM & Zebra: helping you and your teams work smarter and more safely

As a leader in mobile communication, Zebra delivers real-time visibility and connectivity across your organization, streamlining communication and workflows so you can better coordinate operations, drive collaboration, improve cost management, track resources, and increase worker safety.

Improve efficiency and safety

Through tightly integrated front-end and back-end systems, operations managers can coordinate work, track inventory and maintenance, and maximize asset utilization while maintaining worker safety.

Minimize disruptions and delays

Automation and integration help prevent delays and disruptions that can impact everything from getting help to coordinating resources and achieving production targets. Safe, efficient operations depend on effective connectivity.

Gain visibility and control costs

Fluctuating demand. Supply chain disruption. Decarbonization programs. Rising labour costs and inflation. These are among the many factors that impact your business, and gaining deeper insight into them can help guide crucial operational and financial decision-making.

Increase employee productivity

Empower workers with more seamless workflows and better access to critical information. Improve oversight of your entire workforce.
